Merry Christmas & Happy New Year

The second semester, the longest of the year, has ended. There were 104 days of school in the second semester. The third semester will be 54 days of school. (The 6th graders will have fewer days.)

The second semester began in record-breaking heat, but it has suddenly gotten cold recently, and the ginkgo trees in the schoolyard have turned yellow (though all their leaves have now fallen...).

There were many events during the second term, and each child had their own goals and worked hard at the events. I could feel the children's growth in each event.

The third term is the shortest period of the year. I want the children to cherish each and every day. For that reason, I would like children to set goals for the year during the winter break. I would also like them to discuss with their parents what their goals are for the year and how they plan to achieve it.

6日(金) New Year's calligraphy practice session

This year, Ms. Kazuko Uchida came to our school and we held a calligraphy practice session. She taught the third graders how to use a calligraphy brush. The children gathered in the gym in groups of grades and were taught the key points of each character. The teacher made it easy to write the strokes, such as the stops and strokes, but the children had a hard time.

11日(水) Aroma Craft Class

Home education classes were held. This year, we invited Kayoko Seriyama, owner of "flora-garden" in Shibayama, as our instructor and had the children try their hand at making body oil and room spray.

We were also taught how to do hand massages using the oil we created. The spray is also said to help prevent colds.

We held class observations and discussion sessions. The flu started spreading the weekend before. The 5th grade was closed for three days, and We were very worried about whether We would be able to have class visits. However, there were no new increases in the number of infections, and parents were able to observe classes in all grades without any problems.

17日(火) 6th grade tax class

We held a "tax class" again this year. For sixth graders, taxes are something that they don't understand, but they did know about consumption tax. We were told how this tax will be used. The children understood that they are used for safety and security in their lives. We want them to become people who pay a lot of taxes in the future.

20日(金) Closing ceremony

We held the closing ceremony for the second term. At the beginning of the ceremony, everyone sang the song of the month. Her joyful singing voice is always so wonderful. Their homework is to go home and present how they have grown in the second term and decide what they will work hard on in the third term. Happy New Year everyone!
